St Joseph's Hall 1871

The building itself is called St Joseph's Hall and it was built in 1871 and was one of the earliest educational facilities in the area consisting of 3 classrooms. Despite its appearance it was never a church.

When the School moved from School Street to Highfield it became a building used by the community and owned by the parish.

Its many uses were, a boxing hall, badminton hall, scouts den and most famously the home of Kilcock Music and Drama Society

We are now proud to call School Street our home and take pride in opening it up to the public everyday. Feel free to check out our photo display corridor.

As the building is over 150 years old it has its quirks, acoustics, bouncy floors, drafts to name a few. We like to appreciate them rather than change the character.
